At first, it looked as though this Branch would have to adjourn without a quorum, but by half past elight o'clock, Lieut, Sylvis had drummaed up the proper number and the Branch was called to order by President Scott. At last the one hundred and eighteen rules were finished and there followed a general sigh of relief.

The largest land-slide that this neighborhood has seen, occurred on Indian run, Thursday morning. Three acres of ground, a piece about half again has large as the public square, went down bedily into the run on the land reaently purchased by Mr. Clark from Mr. Tarbet. The ground that moved was not the mere surface but about fifty trees were carried along with it, and from the roots pulling and dragging the trunks and branches were interlocked in inextricable confusion. The mass of trees, earth and stones dammed up the run so that quite a lake was formed. The work of clearing a passage where the road is blocked up will be lannenbe, and it may be that it will be found better to pass around.

Replanting is often two and three times Replanting is often two and three time necessary, and with little encouragement necessary, and with little encouragement to the persevering laborer. The Mississippi Valley in many localities is suffering seriously from the second overflow, which will cause a decrease of the acreage, estimated at fully 25 per cent. Labor throughout the district is working well. Wheat is good, and the prospects for corn are encouraging.

Strike of Weavers in Man

A Strike of Weavers in Massachusetts.

Amsserny, Mass., June 1.—The striking weavers who left their work in the Hamilton Mills are still out. The cause of the strike was the posting in the mills of a notice from the Hamilton Company that fifty cents would be deducted from the weavers for each cut coming off without the requisite number of picks to the inch. There is little or no excliencent and the whole matter is now in course of adjustment. The inthe or no excitement and the whole mat-ter is now in course of adjustment. The weavers claim that it would be impossible for them to earn a living under such an ar-bitrary rule, as their wages depend upon the speed of their loom and the quality of the material. If the loom is slow and the stock poor the weavers will be unable earn a living under the new rule. Widow James to Lecture by Proxy

Widow James to Lecture by Proxy.

KANSAS CITY, June 1.—Mrs. Zerelda James, widow of the outlaw, Jesse James, to-day entered into a contract with a Kansas City manager for an extended lecture tour. The lecture will be on the life and adventures of Jesse James. She is to be assisted by outside help in the preparation of her lecture, and her scheme is to hire an assistant to deliver it for her. Her part is to sit on the platform with her little boy and girl while the lecture is being delivered. Places and dates for the "show" are not yet announced. Mrs. James, who is living here in rather straightened circumstances, states that her object in entering the lecture field is to procure means with which to give her children a good education.

A Veritable Betcher A Verifiable Betcher.

St. Louis, June 1.—A Post-Dispatch special faom Santa Fe, New Moxico, says that yesterday, Millon Yarberry, a member of "Billy the Kid's" gang, was sentenced to be hung on the sixteenth of June, for the murder of Chas. Campbell. One year ago Yarberry killed five men, one being Henry Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., and the others being drivers, freighters and travelers. Campbell was a stranger and was killed for fun.
